

We are about to embark on a very huge musical revolution.

It is a dark time for sound right now and it is causing much pain and agony to the skilled musicians and listeners all around planet earth and beyond. There are vibration demons growing their powers and skills in the darkest places in hell right now and soon a hole in reality will rip open violently and swiftly and all the wonders of what sound is and will be will swarm the earth and consume all small vibration life forms.

Right now there are radio stations pushing out shit into the earth's atmosphere and polluting the minds of our fellow humans. There are TV shows hypnotizing us and telling us what to do while it rots our brains. This generation's intelligence is being abused and tortured; there are some people that are fet-up watching their love ones suffering. We are human beings for Sam's sake! Let's start acting like it. Rap, country, oldies rock, pop punk screamo hardcore emo bands, simple techno and trance, and basically anything else you are pushed to enjoy will die like a mouse thrown into a tank of hungry meat eating monkeys and the fly's will lay their eggs in the remains of this stench invested disgraceful disappointing sound.

As we speak there is a new generation of musical children being born. The internet is educating and giving experience to our beloved children and these kids are going to grow faster intellectually than bamboo shoot stretching its branches towards the stars in our universe. All of these intellectual beings will bless human kind with modern medicine and technology and I think these kids will need something a little more stimulating than an 808 with some red neck singing about how many drugs he did and girls he fell in love with and had intercourse with. This new generation will want something that caters to their emotions and intellect.

Sound is one of the most amazing languages us human beings have to express our inner thoughts and emotions and any language constantly develops over time. Music rises and then falls like tidal waves and will continue this pattern through out existence. One day we will all be communicating through shapes, sounds, colors and literary language.

In the midst of the unknown realms outside of our reality there are people that are dabbling and perfecting the art of sound so that they will be able to connect everyone around them in humanity harmony.

At first I started making band music and then electronic music, but only recently I realized that I am not trying to make music anymore! Music is a training process for something much greater than the boundaries of songs and albums. Now I know that there is something out there that will please me more than songs and art. Soon there will be multimedia experiences existing in our own minds and I will be right on top with the other innovators perfecting artistic communication. It is my duty to build my skills to uncanny heights in order to fuse together a large population of kids living in my community.

You will receive songs and albums I make in the process of my education for free, so you can share my own experiences. Now I am alone and do not have support from most of the people around me, but I do know that all this is for a good reason. If I die tomorrow it means nothing because other artists will be doing the exact thing I am trying to reach through the journey to enlightenment.
